it sooner or later became common with bargain conscious Filipinos hunting for imported American clothing and other items at rock-bottom prices. It is ravaging communities across the country, so the combination of rising costs forcing more seniors into affordable treatment. For men, the story is slightly different.